

RRC Bulletin

May 2023 - Issue 135

2023 Scientific Advances in River Restoration (SARR) Conference Bookings Open & Programme released

6th - 8th September 2023, University of Liverpool

We have an exciting line up of speakers from 20 countries. A range of subjects across our conference themes will be discussed including advancements in science promoting more effective, evidence guided restoration practice, the development of new tools and technologies, and understanding what we are aiming to achieve with restoration and how to accomplish this in a changing world.

Interested in sponsoring the SARR conference? Check out the packages available and secure your sponsorship place now!

Find out more & book your place

2023 RRC Conference Declaration Published

400 river experts attended the 2023 River Restoration Centre (RRC) Annual Network Conference in Birmingham on 19th & 20th April, titled 'An Action Strategy for River Restoration'. The consensus from the conference is that to achieve the social, environmental and economic benefits of restoring healthy rivers and functioning floodplains in the UK, we should consider some key concepts.

Find out more & read the 8 statements

RRC Member Site Visit to Cynrig Hatchery
20th September 2023, Cynrig Hatchery, Brecon

Find out more and book your place
A grand design with a difference for rare species

Rive Restoration Job Opportunities

Assistant Project Manager \(River Restoration\) at Affinity Water - deadline June 2nd
River Restoration Project Manager at Natural Resources Wales - deadline June 11th

We would like to thank  and our core funders for their continued support

