

Diagram adapted from "Working with natural processes", draft report. © Environment Agency and Black & Veatch (2014)

RETHINKING OUR CATCHMENTS

At the RRC Natural Flood Management training course earlier this month, delegates heard about the ongoing source to sea catchment project at the National Trust Holnicote Estate, and took part in workshop sessions. >>

© RRC

CONFERENCE OUTPUTS AVAILABLE SOON

We are working hard to ensure that all outputs from our Annual Conference will be available online as soon as possible. Until then, we have collated your feedback to write a summary. >>

© Wiltshire Wildlife Trust

RRC TRAINING COURSES IN JULY AND SEPTEMBER

Up next is "Setting project and monitoring objectives to demonstrate multiple benefits" in Salisbury (8th July). This includes a site visit/ exercise on the Avon. Bookings close on 27th June. >>

Good to know

Catchment based approach website 'live'

All catchment hosts are being asked to populate their partnership pages. >>

What's the RiverWiki ?

Our new guide shows you how to access best practice examples, how to upload your own and what data we need to 'approve' them. >>

New EA briefing note: Catchment Summaries

Catchment partnerships can feed into 'Catchment Summaries' which will form part of the next river basin planning consultation. >>

Preferred candidate for EA chair announced

Philip Dilley is the government's candidate to take over as chair of the Environment Agency. >>

National Trust vacancy

National Specialist: Freshwater and Estuary management. >>

RiverWiki case study for JUNE

Holnicote multi-objective NFM demonstration project

We would like to thank Cranfield UNIVERSITY and the Centre's core funders for their continued support

